

Future of Industry, Manufacturing & Smart Factory 4.0

Emmanuel GAVACHE
CEO
Eridanis

Emmanuel GAVACHE launched Eridanis, named after a constellation of the southern hemisphere before immersing himself in the highly technological world of IoTs (Internet of Things), firmly establishing himself as the IOT thought leader..

This native of Nice has had a long and rich career in several more conventional industries. The young engineer graduated from BSE (Ecole Supérieure du Bois) and worked at EDF where he engaged in high-frequency bonding technologies. Mr GAVACHE later joined the Pinault Group, where he held management positions in several subsidiaries.

In January 1996, his professional life took a major turn. "I was" hunted "to join the Renault Group, which was going very badly at the time. He sought to build teams of young people with different profiles, engineers with a business side. It was the great chance of my career," remembers Mr GAVACHE. Soon, he became responsible for industrial equipment (purchase of machinery) of the French-Japanese manufacturer.

Industry 4.0 Expert, Manufacturing & Smart Factory 4.0, IoT Expert, Passionate about High Technology & Cars